Tech Tip:

Read Before Clicking!

One of the best things you can do to prevent computer problems is to take a moment to read any messages that come up on your computer before saying "yes" or "allow." Also be sure to not say "yes" or "allow" to any popups or changes unless you are currently trying to install a program or make a change.

Although it's easy to feel bombarded by the various messages, alerts, etc. that pop up from time to time, taking a few seconds to read the messages and decide if they seem legit will end up saving time, headaches and a trip to your local computer shop.

Featured Upgrade:

SSDs!

Looking to add some oomph to your computer? Want smoother game play or video playback from storage? Wish your apps opened faster and your computer booted up quicker? One of the easiest ways to do that is to upgrade from your traditional HD (hard drive), to a new SSD (solid state drive).

SSDs are the latest in data storage technology. It's similar to flash memory in that it has no moving parts. The data is accessed lightning fast. With the popularity of SSDs growing daily, the price for this technology is falling almost as quickly, making it an affordable upgrade for the average computer owner.
